PRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 27.

How Haircloth is Made -Many people understand, of course, how haircloth is made, but for the edification of those who do not, we will explain the process. In the first place horsehair cannot be dyed. It repels coloring matter; so to make black cloth it is necessary to secure natural black hair. The horses, in many cases, absolutely wild, running unrestrained, are regularly coralled and shorn. Of course black hair is preferable, but sometimes gray stock is utilized. Not only the tails, but also the manes are cut; the heir is bunched. These bunches seldem contain hairs of less tength than two feet; some are even three and 31 fee; and the thickness of the busches is usually two or three inches. The heircioth looms are provided with what we may call a nipper, in place of shuttle, and the hipper is so finely actuated that it travels across the warp and seizes from the bunches one bair only—he jaws of the nipper being too fine to grasp more than one—and carries it scress the wef, threads, dropping it into its exacts place. The action of the loom mechanically forces the hair next to its predecessor, the warp crosses upon it, soughy holds it in its place, the nipper travels back and seizes another, and so on and on. The delicacy and aimost human accuracy with which such such to the contract with the contract of the con which each separate bair is piaced between the warp threads is resity incredible.—Upholsterer.

An officer of the Kuickerbocker Ice Company said yesterday that the arrivals on Sat-urday from Maine afone numbered more than 40 cargoes. Some of this toe was con-signed to the companies or to large individual consumers, but the greater part was sent to this city on speculation.
